* If a project generates considerable public interest, the Zoning Administrator has the option of delegating decision making authority to the Planning Commission, where a decision can be made in an open public hearing. The Planning Commission will act in the capacity of the Zoning Administrator at the date and time of the next available public hearing. In such cases, the appeal period will begin when the commission makes the decision.

 All Zoning Administrator decisions are subject to further review and action by the City Council.
